

WEBSITE - A Storytelling Media Platform

- For this class, I would like to create a media sharing website for artists and storytellers. It would host sequential and narrative media such as comics, written stories, zines, and other multi "page" works for people to post and enjoy.

Purpose Statement

The purpose of the website would be to create a platform that hosts the work of creative and storytellers. The site is a place that fosters creativity and shares stories that bring others together.

Functions of Product

- 1) Allows users to post and read media
- 2) Has a section that hosts art and writing tutorials from both the site and users. Hosts forums for discussions on art and storytelling
- 3) Provides a place to share and consume work that isn't created by nor used to train AI
- 4) A "like" system where users show interest in which media they consume
- 5) Allows for artists and creators to link to their other socials so users can find more of their content

Measures of Success

- Allows users to post media and tag it appropriately for optimal engagement
- Prompts site made articles/ blog posts and also has community driven message boards for people to search tags on different discussions on the creative process
- Puts measures in place on sharing data to AI trainers. Links to ways on encrypting images as well
- Each post as a drop down to view comments and likes which can be disabled if they original poster chooses
- Each post contains an "Artist" section that easily links to the main artist page and links to social sites with an easy click
